ADVERTISING SIGNS ALONG HIGHWAYS TO BE LIMITED

Recent regulations prepared by the provincial government and now approved by order in council, provide that outdoor signs on main highways shall in future be permitted only within two miles of a city or town and then they must be at least 1000 feet apart.

Vendors of pills, pyjamas and pickles may not like it, but in future no more than 3000 advertising signs will be permitted on Alberta's 2500 miles of main highways.

The recently promulgated regulations issued also take care of the regulation of business premises along main highways, such as refreshment stands, gasoline stations, "hot dog" stands and the like. These must all be approved as to design, and must not be located nearer to main highways than 60 feet from the centre line. Provisions supplementary to sanitary regulations already in force are also included in reference to tourist camps, and in general all the regulations for bill boards, gasoline stations, tourist camps and other forms of business were intended, not to be repressive of business enterprise, but to aid business by ensuring that only attractive premises, suitably placed, shall be erected and operated.

SPECIAL PRIZES SCHOOL FAIR AT COMMUNITY HALL

The joint school fair centred at Mountain View community hall on Wednesday, September 25 was possibly the biggest ever staged in the matter of entries and attendance. Six schools east of town took part and the afternoon declared a holiday took on the form of a gala event for old as well as young.

Harvesting operations being completed unusually early this year the attendance was exceptionally large.

The special prizes, although not large, offered some inducement to the young farmers and farmerettes. Such prizes cannot be too numerous. They promote enthusiasm. One of particular merit was the $500 insurance policy (first premium paid) offered by Fisher and Edwards, for the boy or girl obtaining the greatest number of first prizes. Arnold Thurlow, Rosebud, captured this.

Following is a list of the special prize winners:

Chicken coupe — David Clarke, Gore.

Pair turkeys — James Mosley, Neapolis.

Special beef calf — Ronald Lyons, Jutland.

Special pail fed dairy calf — Arnold Thurlow, Rosebud.

Perehiron colt — Arnold Thurlow, Rosebud.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC REGULATIONS IN SIGHT

Long favored by Alberta motorists and approved by the Canadian Automobile Association, the movement for a uniform code of traffic laws in the Dominion is being well advanced. In all likelihood, definite action will be taken when the Canadian Bar Association deals with draft reports at its next convention in Quebec this month.

Speakers at conventions of the Alberta Motor Association have frequently stressed the need of standard traffic regulations for all parts of the Dominion. There has been confusion, and at times, accidents, when tourists have been in various provinces, due to the rules of the road not being the same as in the province they had just left.

Now the Canadian Bar Association, composed of legal men who realize the need of uniformity just as motorists do, has had a committee working on a draft which will be submitted at the next convention. This is being considered by Hon. J. F. Lymburn, the Alberta representative of the committee, who will present his report at the convention.

Standard regulating of the speed to travel and the loads to be carried will be dealt with in the committee's report, which will be awaited with interest by motorists in all parts of the Dominion.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Dawson, Calgary, wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to the School Board, Hospital Board, Dr. Evans, nurses and many citizens of Didsbury, for the kindness shown their daughter Vera during her recent illness.

W.I. And W.C.T.U. Hold Joint Meeting

At a very successful joint meeting of the Didsbury W.I. and W.C.T.U. held at the home of Mrs. Dr. J. L. Clarke, Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. F. G. Grevett, of Calgary explained the coast-to-coast adult pledge signing campaign now being carried on.

Mrs. Grevett reviewed the working of government control in the seven provinces and declared the traffic in alcohol continues to assume disturbing proportions, and gave facts and figures as shown by the statistics issued by the Department of trade and commerce, Ottawa.

While the greatest loss from the liquor traffic will always be the moral loss, as evidenced by the sorrow of the home and the record of crimes, yet undoubtedly the economic waste must be felt by the business men. Committees were appointed to canvass the district

Procure Seed Oats Early

One of the most serious effects of the past dry season will be a shortage of good seed oats for next year's crop in some sections of the province. Farmers in these areas are being advised by the Department of Agriculture to lose no time in securing the seed supply they will require for spring.

There will be little difficulty in supplying this demand from other parts of the province where a heavier yield of the coarse grains was harvested, but it will be necessary to know the requirements of the drier districts at an early date. Already a considerable demand is reported from outside the province, and buyers are booking orders for a large quantity of seed oats to be shipped out of the province before next spring.

In order that Alberta farmers may be assured of a seed supply while grain of good quality is available, they are advised to communicate at once with their local elevator agent so that arrangements can be made for any necessary shipments before seeding time.

Bride-Elect Feted At Gay Gathering

On Monday evening, October 7 a very large number of friends and relatives gathered and surprised Miss Jerene Shantz, whose marriage took place last Thursday. The gathering was in the form of a miscellaneous shower held at her home. The first part of the evening was spent in playing games while later on a tiny bride and groom and flower girl entered, wheeling a doll carriage which contained a number of the gifts. Following them came a number of girls carrying the remainder of the presents.

After the numerous useful gifts were unwrapped, a very delectable lunch was served.

Canadian Anomalies

Following the close of the Great War by the signing of the Armistice, Canada demanded and was accorded a place of equality with other nations of the world at the Peace Conference, and, with the creation of the League of Nations, Canada entered that League on exactly the same terms as all other nations. That is to say, Canada was recognized as a nation. And in signing the League Covenant, Canada accepted the responsibilities of a nation.

At the last Imperial Conference, in London, with all the self-governing Dominions of the Empire and the British Government fully represented, a formal declaration was adopted setting forth that Canada and the other self-governing Dominions were fully autonomous nations within the British Commonwealth of Nations, possessing exact equality with Great Britain.

As a logical outcome of these declarations, Canada has established her own legations in certain foreign countries, appointed her own ministers, and, in turn, these countries have named ministers at Ottawa. Thus, as a nation, Canada has direct representation at Washington, Paris and Tokio, in exactly the same manner as any other country. Equally significant is the fact that the British Government has appointed a High Commissioner to Canada, while Canada maintains a High Commissioner in London.

But while Canada is thus recognized as a nation, it is the only nation in the whole world which has no nationality of its own, and no distinctive flag of its own. These are anomalies which other people find it extremely difficult to understand.

In England, people born in that country are recognized and officially listed as English; if born in Scotland, they are listed as Scottish; in Ireland, as Irish; in France, as French; in Germany, as German; in the United States, as American. Born in Canada, on the other hand, a person may be listed as of any nationality under the sun except Canadian. Officially, there is no such person as a Canadian.

The writer of this article was born in Canada as were his father and mother. His mother's parents were both born in Canada. His father's parents were born in Ireland, their ancestors having crossed to the Emerald Isle from Scotland. So the writer becomes, in Canada, an Irishman although neither he nor his parents ever saw Ireland. If his grandfather had been born in Siam, then the writer would be a Siamese.

In the face of such an anomaly, such a ghastly absurdity, it is little wonder that the people of other countries laugh in the face of any person born in Canada who is bold enough to lay claim to his country being a nation.

Every nation in the world, except one, has a distinctive flag of its own. The exception is Canada. Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Newfoundland, the Irish Free State all have their distinctive national flags, as well as the Union Jack, the flag of all of Great Britain and the Empire. Canada has a distinctive flag for its merchant marine, and by Orders-in-Council it has been decreed that this shipping flag shall be flown over Canadian Government buildings in the British Isles, and in foreign lands, but it is not officially recognized anywhere else.

Thus, while a Canadian may fly a distinctive Canadian flag over a ship owned by him, he may not fly it over his office building or his residence, and while such a flag may be flown over a Canadian Government building in London, Washington, Paris, or Tokio, it cannot be flown over a Canadian Government building in Halifax or Vancouver, or anywhere between these two points.

A person born in Canada is, therefore, that peculiar individual among the peoples of the world who has no nationality he can call his own, and no distinctive flag that he can properly fly in his own land and over his own home and public institutions.

And yet the people of Canada find pride in calling Canada a nation. Why, this so-called nation of Canada has not even the right to amend its own constitution, a power possessed by other self-governing dominions of the British Commonwealth.

Canada is, and is proud to be, and desires to remain, a part of the British Commonwealth of Nations. It is proud of and loyal to the Union Jack as the flag of that great Commonwealth, and will ever retain it. But just as the Dominion has its own Coat of Arms, and each Province its Arms, and each city its Arms, so do the people of Canada desire to establish and retain their own nationality, have their own distinctive flag, and enjoy full autonomy in their domestic affairs.

Much as a native born Canadian may love England, or Scotland, or Australia, or New Zealand, he does not desire to merge his identity or lose his individuality. He is a Canadian and desires to be known as such, not as an Englishman, a Scotsman, an Australian or a New Zealander.

If Canada is a nation, let it display the qualities and the insignia of a nation.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Prince Albert National Park

An all-weather highway from Regina or the boundary to Prince Albert National Park will probably be put into condition, F. R. MacMillan, of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan Conservative Association, told members of the Kiwanis Club at Prince Albert. He thought that this should be the policy of the government, and the fact that a cabinet minister in the Anderson Government, Hon. J. A. Merkley, was on a trip to the park was an evidence of the government's interest.

Ten men emerged from the sunken submarine T-17 in forty-eight seconds during a submarine experiment in Italy, making what is called a world record for such a feat.

HEALTH REGAINED

Mother and Daughters Restored
Through the Use of Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills

"Contrary to what my friends once thought, I am still living," says Mrs. Norman White, New Canada, N.S., "and I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had been a sufferer for some years. I was weak and run-down; my heart would palpitate violently at the least exertion. I grew so weak that I could not do my housework. I was under a doctor's care, but it did not benefit me. A second doctor was called in, but with no better results. I was told that I was almost bloodless, and I became so weak I was forced to remain in bed. My friends did not believe I could recover. While in this condition a neighbor strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It was like grasping at a straw, but six boxes of this medicine were got for me, and by the time I had taken them I was able to sit up. Another six boxes were got and soon I was able to go about, my health steadily improving. I continued the use of the pills until I felt my health fully restored. I still take the pills occasionally as a safeguard. My two daughters have also used the pills with the most beneficial results. The trouble in both cases was the anemia that so often comes when girls are entering womanhood. Under the use of this medicine both fully regained health, strength and activity. You can see, therefore, that it is impossible for me to praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly, and I hope every weak person who may read this will benefit by my experience."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A "space rocket," designed to shoot upward for 32 miles, and, it is hoped, be the forerunner of a rocket that will carry mail to America in 30 minutes, is to be built at once, it has been learned.

Prof. Hermann Oberth, a Roumanian scientist, designed the rocket. It will be built under the supervision of the U.F.A. Film Company. Its object, for the first flight, is to measure the physical and chemical properties of the atmosphere. Instruments will be enclosed in it to this end.

Artificial Silk From Acetic Acid

Combined With Cellulose Will Make Fine Fabric Is Predicted

Prediction that the sour taste in vinegar will be used to make artificial silk was made to the United States Chemical Society today by Professor D. B. Keyes, of the University of Illinois. The sour substance with which chemistry's magnetic touch may make finer dresses was called by Prof. Keyes by its scientific name, acetic acid. He told of a newly-developed process at Illinois for making it, developed in co-operation with E. P. King and Sherlock Swanne, of the university. For making artificial silk it is combined with cellulose to form cellulose acetate.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, is calling a second meeting of the national committee of the world's grain conference and exhibition. The meeting will be held in Toronto on November 21.

Considerable work has been accomplished in preparing for the world conference which will be held in Regina in 1932. The tentative prize lists will soon be ready and will be so arranged that every province will have good chances in some of the classes. As soon as the lists are completed copies of them will be sent to all foreign countries with invitations to compete.

Mysteries Are Wrapped Up In Strange Disappearances Of Many Deep Sea Vessels

Denmark has abandoned as hopeless its long search for a clue to the fate of the full-rigged clipper training ship "Copenhagen" with sixty cadets aboard, seen for the last time in the throes of her struggle with a heavy sea off a lonely island in the South Atlantic. During the seven months of weary exploration that has intervened, not so much as a spar, a lifeboat or a piece of floating wreckage has rewarded the Danish seamen who undertook the quest for the missing ship. The mystery that envelops the Copenhagen closely resembles that attending the disappearance of the United States collier "Cyclops," and it has prompted the New York Sun to recall other tragedies of the sea that also remain unsolved.

In the latter part of 1928 an American steamer came upon the schooner "Mary Cornish" in mid-Pacific. Nothing indicated that the schooner had suffered from disastrous weather or that it had been swept by a high sea. Bloodstains were found on a newspaper in the cabin, but no evidence of a struggle; there was neither officer nor crew aboard, and no boats were missing. What had occurred aboard the craft will, in all probability, never be known. Two years before this the captain of the French sailing ship "Emile Gallie," in rounding Cape Horn, found a three-masted vessel embedded in an iceberg. The craft was firmly fixed in a cleft of the ice mass about twelve feet above the water's edge and, with the exception of a broken topmast, appeared intact. There was no sign of life aboard, and all the boats were in place. He reported the circumstance and the ship was tentatively identified as one long reported missing, but no one was able to offer an explanation of its loss.

A French steamer fell upon a large junk in the China Sea, which, upon investigation, the master found was deserted. In the junk he saw upon a cargo of silk and a considerable sum of money. The only explanation was offered by a Chinese member of the crew; who said that it was a craft belonging to a band of pirates who had fled the vessel in fear that the steamer was a disguised warship. As strange a discovery was reported by the captain of a Dutch liner plying among the West Indies and along the South American coast. He boarded a tramp steamer destitute of life except a starving dog. He found evidence that the crew had only shortly before abandoned the vessel. His theory was that when the ship had become becalmed they had taken to a small boat in the hope of towing the vessel, but had been swept away by a strong current. The steamer had been listed among missing ships, but in this case, too, only conjecture was left regarding the fate of its crew.

Not always does Old Man Sea leave so much of a clue to his mysteries. It is because he restored these missing ships to human ken that another chapter could be written of their disappearance.

The vulture can see from a great height, while the chick, or the wren, will pick at objects so small that the human eye misses them.

New Varieties Of Rust-Resisting Wheat

But Production Not Yet Sufficient
For Seed Distribution

Two or three varieties of wheat which will resist rust have been developed by the Department of Agriculture. It was stated by Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of the department. "Our experiments this year confirm the earlier prospects," said Dr. Grisdale. "No names have yet been given the new varieties, and it will be two or three years before they can be produced in sufficient quantities for seed distribution, but we feel confident that we have the kind now that will resist the known varieties of rust."

Rambouillet Sheep

Considered To Be the Best Breed
For the Beginner To Raise

Although not well known in the province of Manitoba, the Rambouillet breed of sheep enjoys a wider distribution on the North American continent than almost any other breed. They possess some very desirable characteristics, in that they are unusually hardy, and free from most diseases that affect sheep. They have an excellent quality of wool, the ewes make excellent mothers, and through a foundation of Rambouillets, a high class flock of any of the blackface breeds may be quickly developed by the farmer who pays careful attention to his breeding practices. There is no doubt but that the Rambouillet breed is the best for the beginner in sheep, owing to the fact that generations of breeding on the large ranges, has developed in this breed, a remarkable ability to take care of themselves under any conditions. The sheep that are being supplied to Manitoba farmers by the Manitoba Livestock Credit Company, this fall, are a carefully selected lot of the Rambouillet breed.

West Gong Ahead

Sir Henry Thornton Takes Note Of Developments On Trip To Western Canada

"There is a silver lining to the cloud insofar as the situation in Western Canada is concerned," stated Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, on returning to his headquarters in Montreal, after a tour which took him throughout the Western Provinces and to the Pacific Coast.

"While it is true that the West is not harvesting such a voluminous crop as in average years, and it is also true that some farmers and some districts are hard hit, it must be remembered that there are districts and farmers in those districts who have harvested better crops than they anticipated a short time ago, and who are reaping the benefit of higher prices from their hold-over grain from last year, and also higher prices for the grain which they have produced in 1929."

The West has gone ahead and is going ahead; building up on a basis of sound progress, and one going from the East cannot fail to be impressed with the same development which is taking place on all sides.

"On the Pacific Coast, in particular, the development of trade with the Orient is being closely followed, and there is also a realization of the fact that Canada is sharing and will share to a greater degree in the further development of that trade," Sir Henry said, concluding with the statement that he had inspected the properties of the system in each of the provinces visited and he had found things in good condition everywhere with the officers and employees keenly on the alert to provide the best service to its patrons.

Merely An Uncle

Lord Macduff, the young son of Prince and Princess Arthur, of Connaught, had just learned the words of the national anthem, and he told his nurse that he wanted to see "Our Noble King."

One day, when the King was walking in the grounds at Bagshot with the Duke of Connaught, Lord Macduff was told by his nurse, "Look, there is the King, with Grandfather."

"Oh, no," said little Lord Macduff, "that is not the King. That is my Uncle George."

Residents of Aklavik and other points inside and outside the Arctic circle in the far north are to be given a daily news bulletin through the action of Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, who with the co-operation of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signallers has inaugurated a wireless news service which will do much to improve the isolation of those pioneer men and women—traders, ranchers, trappers, prospectors, missionaries, doctors, teachers and members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police who are carrying civilization into the far north.

For the past few years the residents of the Mackenzie District have had the benefit of the wireless service for telegraphic purposes. Stations at Fort Smith, Resolution and Simpson, in the valley, and Aklavik and Herschel on the Arctic coast, have been linked up in this manner with the R.C.C.S. station at Edmonton, but only commercial and urgent private messages have been handled.

However, Mr. Stewart felt that something more could be done with the equipment, and he has now, in co-operation with the department of national defence, made arrangements whereby every day one of the officers of the Department of the Interior, at Edmonton, prepares a 500-word bulletin of news of special interest to northern residents, to be broadcast to the receiving stations of the north.

The bulletins thus received are posted at the local offices of the North West Territories and Yukon branch, and at all police posts where they are obtainable, and where they can be read without charge by the residents of the various settlements.

The work has been placed in the hands of assistant commissioner of Dominion lands, R. B. Matheson, at Edmonton, and the first 500 word bulletin has been sent out. The news bulletin will be continued without interruption as far as possible, and according to northerners now in the city will prove of inestimable benefit to people living in the outlying sections who will thus be kept in touch with world events and Canadian happenings of particular interest to them.

Describing a Canadian

Immigration Act Leaves No Room
For Argument

From time to time the question is asked: "What is a Canadian?" There is an agitation for provision in the census defining Canadians and it is likely this will be done in the next census two years hence.

As a matter of fact, a Canadian is clearly described in the Immigration Act as follows:

"(i) A person born in Canada who has not become an alien; (ii) a British subject who has Canadian domicile; or (iii) a person naturalized under the laws of Canada, who has not subsequently become an alien or lost Canadian domicile."

This would appear to meet the case adequately.

Whether an individual who owns a piece of property also owns the air above it, and whether he may sell or lease the air, is a disputed legal matter.

Sugar is found in the sap of nearly 200 plants and trees.

"You are lucky in love, Mr. Dupont?"

"Exceedingly I am still a bachelor."—Moustique, Charleroi.

President Inspects Resort

Among the many places visited by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the directors who are now on a tour of the company's properties in the west, was the famous fishing and hunting resort at Nipigon. Mr. Beatty is seen accepting a bouquet of Nipigon Chrysanthemums from Miss Esme Porter, daughter of the operator at Nipigon Depot, and is also shown conversing with Tom Running Deer, Indian guide attached to the camp. The president and directors spent several hours in the camp on their way to the west.

I'LL TELL THE WORLD

Britain is too modest as a nation and her passion for reticence is doing her harm. When Alcock and Brown crossed the Atlantic in an airplane in 1919 there were no glaring headlines in the papers and soon the great feat was forgotten. Col. Lindbergh crossed to France not long ago and the entire world was informed through the American press that he had performed the wonder of crossing the Atlantic. The day, thanks to British enterprise and invention a 13,000-mile wireless telephone talk was carried on between Australia and Somerset. Had any other nation accomplished anything comparable, the entire press of the world would have been full of it. England the news was hushed. Nobody thought it worth while to inform the newspapers of this amazing development in imperial telephony. In a world that depends for material prosperity, largely on advertising Britain is foolish to do great things by stealth, says the Sunday Dispatch. In the very necessary business of "telling the world," Britain is an infant compared with America.

Further progress was made over the week-end in connection with the new artificial hockey plant which will be erected in the city over the week-end. — Calgary Herald, Sept. 30.

GOLDEN RULE OF THE ROAD

Perhaps the most frequent cause of misunderstanding in our traffic problems is due to the fact that no court of law of late has clearly defined who owns the streets. Public streets belong to everybody. In law the pedestrian has the right-of-way. In ethics the people who pay for them are the owners of the streets. They permit the enjoyment of them to all sorts of vehicles and pedestrians. No one class of wheeled traffic is entitled to exclusive or superior privileges of the street. They are for the general use of all and the requirements of the whole community should be considered in regulating the traffic, parking, use for business or pleasure.

The streets should be used with moderation and every vehicle, animal, person or any property on them is entitled to look for safety and even protection. They are not meant, nor built, nor supported for speedways, any more than for dawdling. The streets are for the reasonable use of the people who pay for them. Nor is the pedestrian required to jump out of the way at the command of any vehicle with a horn, but no walker may unduly obstruct the free passage of reasonably controlled wheeled traffic. Moreover, if every walker and every driver followed the Golden Rule we should not even require traffic policemen.

Just recently the Supreme Court of Oregon ruled that a blind man has the right to walk across a street even if unattended. The court declared: "No person or persons or class of persons has the exclusive right to the use of the streets. Public thoroughfares are for the beggar on his crutches as well as the millionaire in his limousine. Neither is it the policy of the law to discriminate those who suffer physical deformity. The blind and the halt may use the streets

ARE SAYING

The Bulletin is informed that the Dominion Government has leased a parcel of land north of the cemetery for an emergency landing field for the new air mail service.

It is understood that the town must fence this property and make landing runways. It seems likely that this work will be done in the near future as it will be necessary to do it before freeze-up.

The federal government will instal an automatic beacon for the guidance of the fliers.

This is a big step towards putting Brooks on the air maps of Canada. As soon as people know that a good landing field is available and that supplies may be had here, many planes will land here and perhaps a few may be owned locally. — Brooks Bulletin.

WHEN a corporation wishes to build a factory—when a city constructs a new subway—when a large undertaking of that nature is planned, the first step is almost invariably a request for bids on the work. This practice of competitive bidding has saved millions of dollars. It assures the city or corporation of getting the best value for every dollar spent.

The same system can be applied to your own buying. And you can save a proportionate amount of money. How? Simply by consulting the advertising pages of this paper.

When you find yourself in need of a washing machine, a new furnace, a new hat, a pair of shoes, a new suit—anything, don't rush out and buy the first one offered you. Exercise the power of selection that the advertisements give you. Read about each one—what it will do, what it costs. Then, when you find the one that best suits your needs and pocketbook, buy it! In this way you'll be spending your

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Great Britain in 1923 had the lowest infant death-rate ever recorded. Out of every 1,000 children who lived to be one year old, only 65 died.

The population of Saskatoon is nearing the 50,000 mark, according to 1929 issue of Henderson's Directory. It is now estimated by the publishers that this city has 47,653 residents.

The Aero Arctic Association has announced that financial backing has been obtained for the Arctic expedition of the Graf Zeppelin next spring. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, will have 45 persons with him on the flight.

Some of the first issue of Danish cancer stamps have been seen in London. These stamps issued by Denmark to benefit the Danish cancer fund, are in three colors, red, green and blue, in three denominations. All bear the Mercury wand design.

A reward of $1,000 has been offered by the provincial government for information leading to the arrest and conviction of person or persons in the Doukhobor district responsible for the burning of schools throughout the area. This announcement was made by M. A. MacPherson, attorney-general.

Do not allow worms to sap the vitality of your children. If not attended to, worms may work irreparable harm to the constitution of the infant. The little sufferers cannot voice their ailment, but there are many signs by which mothers are made aware that a dose of Miller's Worm Powders is necessary. These powders act quickly and will expel worms from the system without any inconvenience to the child.

Germany Planning World 'Plane Lines

Company Aims For Regular Flying Boat Service Over Atlantic In Two Years

A gigantic network of air lines which will cover the entire world is being planned by Lufthansa, Germany's most important air company.

The plans are being worked out by Otto Merkel, who has given up his post as head of Lufthansa to devote himself to founding an international company, which promises within two years to open regular air lines between Europe and the United States.

Working jointly with the Hamburg-American steamship line, preliminaries have been completed. The details of the new company are still somewhat uncertain, but the approximate direction of developments has been mapped out.

"Not only is the world's interest concentrated in air travel, but in all countries the best technical experts are working out the details," said Herr Merkel. "The experimental stage is behind us and the goal is clear. We have fine 'planes and, especially in America, excellent motors, and everywhere responsible pilots and dependable instruments which will result in an even higher standard soon."

A Household Medicine.—They that are acquainted with the sterling properties of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the treatment of many ailments would not be without it in the house. It is truly a household medicine and as it is effective in dealing with many ordinary complaints it is an inexpensive medicine. So, keep it at hand, as the call for it may come most unexpectedly.

Tall Men's Association

Crusader Is Trying To Make Path Easier For His Elongated Brethren

Things are coming to a sorry pass for tall men, Benjamin Ostling of Marshfield, Ore., president of the Tall Men's Association, of America, indicated on a visit to Cleveland.

The tall man suffers one agony after another, in Ostling's opinion, and the more he has to travel the more his troubles mount. For instance, take the Pullman berths, the standard size hotel bed and the regulation size bath tub.

Ostling is a crusader for the man who towers into the atmosphere six feet or more, and he firmly believes that the Tall Men's Association will accomplish something worth while in the way of added comforts.

The organization, formed in 1925, has nearly 1,000 members, most of them from the west coast, but Ostling predicts a steady increase during the next few years. Before one is taken into this select group, he must prove his eligibility, which can easily be done with a yardstick. The only requisite is that he must be at least six feet tall.

"Tall men have to comb their hair, fix their neckties, and do other finishing touches to their dressing on the installment plan basis if the furnishings in his room are of the standard size," said Ostling. "Just try to imagine me taking a bath in the standard size tub. It just cannot be done. When a tall man sits at a regular sized table, all the pleasure of dining is gone because of the gymnastics he has to perform to keep his legs from bumping those of the table."

"The worst sufferers are, of course, tall men who are compelled to stay days and sometimes months in hospitals. The regulation hospital bed is not too large for the man of average height. Can you imagine a tall man comfortable in them?"

"The time has come when institutions catering to guests must take into consideration the tall man's plight and make provisions for their comfort."

Several hotels in the larger cities have provided special accommodations for their tall guests. Many hospitals on the western coast have at least a dozen beds in each building for their tall patients, and one hospital has even a special operating table for tall men.

Ostling said there are at least 2,000,000 six-footers on the continent.

And the ramifications of Ostling's campaign are not limited, because he even advocates larger jail cells for his more unfortunate brethren.

World Famous Artists On Canadian Radio

HAROLD BAUER

FLORENCE AUSTRAL

Florence Austral, the world's greatest dramatic soprano and Harold Bauer, one of the outstanding pianists of all time, two of the world famous artists who will be heard on the air this season during the Imperial Oil Hour of Fine Music, to be broadcast from Toronto every Sunday evening, beginning on October 6th, from 8 to 9 Central Standard Time. Miss Austral opens the series on Sunday evening, October 6th and Mr. Bauer will be heard on October 20th.

Announcement of a series of concerts by world famous artists on a Canadian radio chain was made yesterday by F. J. Wolfe, Director of Imperial Oil, Limited. The series will begin on October 6th and will continue for twenty-six weeks. It will be broadcast through stations at Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, London, Waterloo, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina and Red Deer and, with the completion of hook-up facilities at the end of the year, at Vancouver.

Among the universally known artists who have been engaged for this series are Florence Austral, the world's greatest dramatic soprano; Sophie Braslau, the great contralto; Harold Bauer, one of the outstanding pianists; Richard Crooks, the American tenor who, though only twenty-eight years of age has scored notable triumphs in Europe and America; Lea Luboshutz, who is said to be the greatest of all women violinists; Hans Kindler, the famous Dutch cellist; The London String Quartet; Albert Spalding, great violinist; Luella Mallus, one of the most famous coloratura sopranos; Josef Lhevinne, the great Russian pianist; Richard Bonelli, leading baritone of the Chicago Opera; The Kedroff Quartet, formerly of the Imperial Palace at Petrograd, and others.

The series will consist principally of symphony concerts at most of which one or more of these famous artists will assist. A great symphony orchestra of more than fifty players has been engaged and will be under the direction of Reginald Stewart, who has lately returned from a concert tour in Europe, and who has been engaged as a guest conductor for the London Symphony Orchestra in April next. The concerts will originate in Toronto and will be offered from 10 to 11 o'clock Eastern Standard Time for twenty-six consecutive Sunday evenings, beginning October 6th.

"Our object in promoting these concerts," Mr. Wolfe said, "is to bring to people within reach of available hook-up facilities in Canada, music and artists which, without the medium of radio, could not be heard outside the great metropolitan centres. We do not regard radio broadcasting as a direct advertising medium and feel that it can function most usefully in purveying entertainment of educational and artistic merit. The aim of the orchestra and guest artists will be to broadcast classical music and modern novelties of more than ordinary merit."

The series, which will be known as The Imperial Oil Hour of Fine Music, will go on the air through stations CHYC, Montreal; CNRO, Ottawa; CKNC and CFRB, Toronto; CJGC, London; CKCR, Waterloo; CKY, Winnipeg; CHWC, Regina; CFQC, Saskatoon; and CKLC, Red Deer.

The Newspaper Guide

Advertisements Are To Shoppers What Time-Table Is To Traveller

The newspaper that carries a good line of advertisements is to the shopper what the time-table is to the traveller and the published guide to the tourist. Busy people start to study these advertisements in the home or in the office, and before they start shopping they know where they are going. . . . In fact, business places are points of interest to all tourists, and the non-advertiser puts himself outside the pale so far as strangers are concerned.

The Singing Fool

By HUBERT DAIL

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club wins fame on Broadway as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Winton, a ballad singer, and makes her famous, too. Molly and Al have a baby, Junior, whom Al adores. Molly becomes romantically interested in John Perry, Al's close friend, and Perry begs her to leave Al. On the third anniversary of his marriage Al takes Molly home from the Club Bombo, where he is part owner. She is moody; her conscience bothers her because of her behaviour with Perry. This is intensified when Al goes to the nursery and she sees how ardently he loves Junior. Later, in a burst of rage, she tells Al she doesn't love him any more. As Al recoils, Molly hears Junior calling her.

CHAPTER XV.

Junior had awakened to find that his toy, his wooly dog, had dropped out of bed. So he was calling to Molly to come and get it for him. As his high childish voice drifted through the rooms to Molly and Al they gave a start. The expression on Al's face softened in an instant. Molly's remained the same as she brushed by Al to look after Junior. Al turned, looking after her retreating figure, still in a daze from her harsh words. He had lost her love, she actually said so herself! Her words and the heart-breaking scene he had just passed through seemed fantastic and unreal to him. What had he done to deserve her indifference and her scorn?

Then, like a man in a dream, he followed her toward the nursery. Standing in the doorway, he saw her pick up Junior's wooly dog from the floor, replace it in the child's arms, and carefully tuck him in.

"Go to sleep, now, Junior. Then Mamma can sleep too."

How strangely contrasting was that soothing voice to the tone Molly had just used in addressing Al! And how kind the expression on Molly's profile as she bent over Junior's bed! Surely this was not the end, thought Al. He suddenly determined that he would not let their life together be blasted by her whim; he would fight to reawaken Molly's love!

As Molly came toward him he raised his hand with an apologetic gesture. "Darling, can't we talk this out? If I've done anything tell me!"

"No—no more talk!" Molly passed him, entering her bedroom. He heard her door close with a snap of finality.

But now Junior was sitting up, holding out his arms to his father. "Daddy, please sing me to sleep."

Al came forward swiftly, picking up Junior, holding him close as if to drive away the wound Molly had inflicted. Here, at any rate, was someone who loved him, trusted him, and always greeted him with the same adoring, happy smile. For a moment Al choked up and couldn't speak. Then he said huskily,

"What do you want me to sing, baby?"

"You know," whispered Junior confidently, "that one about a little boy like me."

"Little Feller?"

"Yes, that one."

Slowly Al began to sing, rocking Junior gently to and fro. There was only an audience of one to hear—and that a very sleepy audience—but the tenderness and appeal of Al's words had not been matched since that night three years ago when he had sung the love ballad "Always," to touch Molly's heart. As the song continued Junior's head drooped in drowsiness and presently his eyes closed. When Al knew that he was really asleep the rhythmic words trailed off into a whisper and silence. Then, pressing the little form close to him for a last good-night hug, he put his son back in the bed.

Once more the tip-toeing from the room. Then Al stopped and gazed wonderingly at Molly's closed door. She was still up; in the semi-darkness of the hallway he could see a faint narrow line of light under the door?

Perhaps she was already repenting of her quick, unkind words—how passionately he wished that could be true! Her pride wouldn't let her make up to him now, but, perhaps in the morning.

Until the long black hours of the night faded into the gray dawn Al sat up in bed, gazing out over the lights of the city, smoking one cigarette after another, wondering, hoping, planning.

In the morning Molly's manner was still cold, but her whip-lash tongue was silent. She avoided meeting his eyes and when she spoke it was about necessary things concerning Junior or the household. Al watched her, hoping to detect a softening glint in those icy blue eyes, but there was no sign of relenting. Finally he left the apartment for his work.

All through the day and evening there was an actual sharp pain in Al's heart as if a knife had been driven swiftly into him and withdrawn. But he went about his work the same as usual, trying to forget the scene of the night before. When he saw Molly after her performance that evening he thought she was in better humor. She was not cordial, by any means, but she made some attempt to treat him courteously. His heart gave a bound; in a few days, he told himself, this mood of hers would wear off and she would be her own lovely self again. Their life together would not be smashed, after all.

So the days passed, with Molly avoiding Al most of the time, and maintaining a certain secrecy of manner when she did talk to him. Then New Year's Eve arrived, the New Year's Eve that Al was to remember always.

It was the big night in the city's life of revelry; snow blanketed the streets, embellishing the roofs and facades of the houses and skyscrapers, emphasizing the dazzling fantasy of brilliant Broadway.

At the Club Bombo the cause of "whoopie" had its most devoted adherents. The crowd in evening dress wore tiny carnival hats and danced with the true spirit of abandon as midnight approached. Long streamers of confetti in brilliant red, green, blue, yellow and purple were shot across the room, describing graceful curves before they fell across the dining tables and the shoulders of the dancers. It was the biggest crowd the Bombo had ever entertained and on the raised orchestra platform, stood Al, wearing a fantastic head-piece, a megaphone in his hands. He was leading the merriment, but the ache in his heart was still present.

Perhaps, he thought, the unrestrained gaiety of this night would change Molly's mood so she would become her old, friendly self. He gave a hurried glance toward her reserved table; she should be here by now. Then came the distracting business of introducing the celebrities, and once more he glanced at the vacant table and consulted his watch. Molly was at least a half hour late. He nodded toward the orchestra leader, signalling for another dance.

As the dancers swept toward the floor he retreated among the tables. What was keeping Molly? He could hear the shrieks of the sirens from outside—the New Year had arrived, the time when feuds and misunderstandings are forgotten, new resolutions are made, and life begins anew. All this, he hoped desperately, would influence Molly.

The orchestra was playing with staccato briskness and abandon, the couples swayed and snuggled and called to one another.

"Choose a partner yourself!" cried a friend in passing, clapping Al on the shoulder. Al laughed in answer, but a moment later he moved toward the 'phone room at the rear. Perhaps Molly had gone straight home from the theatre—he must find out!

The 'phone room was a sort of alcove, with three or four booths. Al entered one, pulling the door shut and calling his apartment number. But the door suddenly drifted open, allowing a roar of happy sounds to enter. Just then he heard a feminine voice at the other end of the wire Molly's voice, he thought. He quickly pulled the door shut again and said:

"Molly, dearest, I've been holding your table for you—hoping you'd come."

But again the door flew open and he missed the answer.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF EVERY MOTHER

The child in the home is a never-failing source of joy, but, at the same time a never-failing responsibility to the fond mother. It not infrequently happens that minor ailments of the child distress and puzzle her. She does not know just what to do, yet feels them not serious enough to warrant calling in the doctor. At just such times as these it is found that Baby's Own Tablets are the mothers greatest help and friend.

Most childhood ailments arise in the digestive tract—the bowels become clogged and the stomach sour. Baby's Own Tablets are a never-failing relief for this condition. They are a mild but thorough laxative and through their action on the stomach and bowels they banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever; allay the pain accompanying the cutting of teeth and promote health-giving sleep. Concerning them Mrs. W. Jennings, Mackay, Ont., writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets and think so highly of them that I would not be without them. Please send me your little booklet on the care of children."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Strange Aerial Cargoes

Airplanes Are Now Used To Carry Every Kind Of Shipment

Fifty tons of milk are being carried every week by aeroplane between London and the Continent, says a Tit-Bits writer.

Recently a consignment of sea-horses for the Zoo arrived by aeroplane at Croydon. Great care was lavished on these fantastic creatures, half horse and half dragon, which were caught in the Bay of Biscay, and throughout the flight air was pumped into their tanks at ten-minute intervals.

Delicate goldfish are often transported in this manner, but the most valuable fish cargo by air was a number of very rare, rainbow hued specimens from the East Indies, some of which were valued at $180 per inch.

A barred cage was recently built inside the fuselage of an aeroplane which left Croydon for Le Bourget, where it picked up a fully grown lion, complete with trainer, and brought them back at over 100 miles an hour.

Another special compartment was fitted in an aeroplane to accommodate a performing circus horse from Paris to London; while an air-freighter arrived recently from Amsterdam with a bear, a monkey and a consignment of parrots.

Twenty years ago it would have been impossible to build a road to the site of the new observatory on Mont Blanc. The aeroplane has made it possible to convey the stones and materials to a height of over 13,000 feet on the mountain side; but when the road is completed it will be one of the most expensive in the world.

It seems strange that milk, easily obtainable in all great cities, should be carried by air, but mysterious zinc-lined boxes were once regularly carried from Croydon to Paris, and these contained two gallons of milk in glass bottles, packed in ice.

The American visitors to whom the boxes were addressed had been so impressed with the purity of English milk that they cheerfully paid 80c. a pint to have it delivered to them in Paris!

Applies To Every Nation

If China and Russia should go to war ninety-five per cent. of the population of either country wouldn't know what it was all about. But that is pretty nearly the case with a war in any nation.

Little Helps For This Week

"He will be very gracious unto thee at the voice of thy cry."—Isaiah xxx. 19.

Father! before Thy footstool kneeling,

Once more my heart goes up to Thee;

For aid, for strength, to Thee appealing,

Thou who alone canst succor me.

And oh! in my exceeding weakness, Make Thy strength perfect; Thou art strong!

Aid me to do Thy will with meekness, Thou to whom all my powers belong.

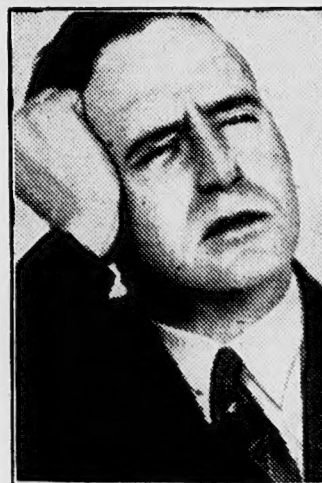

There is no good in praying for anything, unless you will also try for it. All the sighs and supplications in the world will not bring wisdom to the heart that fills itself with folly every day, or mercy to the soul that sinks itself in sin, or usefulness and honor to the life that wastes itself in vanity and inanity.

—Henry J. Van Dyke.

Opinion Wasn't Worth Much

It is told of a popular solicitor that he called upon a brother in the profession, and asked his opinion upon a certain point of law. The lawyer to whom the question was addressed drew himself up and observed: "I generally get paid for what I know." The questioner drew a half dollar from his pocket, handed it to the other and coolly remarked: "Tell me all you know and give me the change."
